BRITAIN WAS PREPARED

Followed Policy of Sending

Washington.—It is a large loss of American lives in China, it will be due not merely to the irresponsibility of the Chinese guerrillas but to the inefficiency of American forces and the reluctance of the missionaries to evacuate danger zones when so advised by the department of state.

Harassment on the side by the critics who insisted that marines and naval forces should never be sent anywhere until actual danger threatened foreign lives and held back by missionary advice here and there that traditional friendship with no Chinese would be better served by no military demonstration. President Coolidge has feared that exactly the kind of outbreak which has occurred would suddenly upset the whole situation and force his hand.

The president has been urged by the military and naval advisers to send more ships and marines on the theory that such a step would impress the Chinese commanders of the serious purposes of the United States.
It has been felt here that the American forces at Manila would be necessary to reach China if the situation developed a crisis. In an overt act, believing that then public opinion would justify almost any measures to save American lives. This viewpoint has been a bitter disappointment to naval men, but the criticism of the policy in the Philippines was not unjustified where it was claimed no Americans were in danger because none was killed, has been fresh in the minds of administration officials.

OLD THEORY SHELVED

The old theory of the navy has been despatch men and ships to a danger spot where no shots were fired, so as to have ample facilities for taking off refugees and also protect by heavy guns the Americans concentrated in the ports. Great Britain followed this policy by sending a large force of marines and ships. The criticism of British policy at the time, as it was suggested that British action would

GOVERNOR APPROVES BILL ON ROAD MAPS

Madison.—(P)—Governor Zimmerman Saturday approved a bill
No. 5, which amends provisions of the law requiring the secretary of state to send a highway map to the owner of every motor vehicle registered with the state department. The action was recommended by the legislative interim committee and the strength of the bill was the recommendation of the committee. The secretary of state, anticipated the repeal of the law and did not order maps for 1927.

A statement issued by the governor, said that for 1926 a total of 806, 000 maps was printed at a total cost of $7,461. The envelope containing the maps, the postage and clerk hire necessary to mail them out brought the total cost to approximately $20, 000 a year, the statement concluded.

CHIEF ENGINEER NAMES KUELLING TO HIGHWAY POST

No Record That Donaghey's Appointment Was Regular,
Governor Says

Madison.—(P)—Herbert J. Kuelling, appointed chief highway engineer by the state highway commission, has been appointed to that post by C. A.
Halbert, state chief engineer. In a statement issued coincident with the appointment, Governor Fred R. Zimmerman said:

"The law creating the department of engineering provides that when any other department of the state government requires an engineer for permanent service, such engineer shall be appointed by the state chief engineer by and with the approval of the department requiring such service. The records do not show that J. T. Donaghey, recently retired highway engineer, ever received this appointment, and in his special message to the legislature, Governor Zimmerman called attention to this fact and requested that the investigating committee ascertain whether Mr. Donaghey had been regularly occupying the position of state highway engineer."

"According to an opinion by the attorney general, if Mr. Donaghey had been regularly appointed state highway engineer he could not have been removed by the highway commission."

KENOSHA FIVE DEFEATS LA CROSSE, SCORE, 29-11

Crosse, 29 to 11, in a listless cage contest Saturday and will meet Wausau Saturday night for third place in the inter-scholastic basketball tournament.
Wausau defeated Platteville by a one point margin earlier in the day to go into the finals of the third place series.
The score was 17 to 16.
LaCrosse, worn after a hard clash
with Madison Central Friday night, was but a shadow of the team that pionship flight. The Kenosha team worked the ball down the floor repeatedly for easy "under the basket" shots.

TRAIL MAN AND HORSE 5 MILES THROUGH SNOW

Manitowoc-co Youth Arrested in Connection With Lake Shore Crimes

Albert Lutzke, 22, town of Meemo, near St. Nazianz, Manitowoc-co, who is wanted for questioning in connection with the murder during the hold-up of a Sheboygan saloon last week, was apprehended by Walter Scherck, deputy sheriff and Roy Zuehlke, under sheriff of Outagamie-co at a farm about five miles north of the village of Black Creek at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. Lutzke was hiding behind a pile of bedding in one of the rooms of the farm house when he was found.

Lutzke was taken to Manitowoc early Saturday morning by W. H.
Mielke, deputy sheriff. Mr. Mielke stated Lutzke was wanted for jumping at a bond of $500, for passing worthless checks, for rape and for questioning in connection with several recent robberies.

HUNTED FOR WEEK

The search for Lutzke was started early this week. Sheriff Beduhn of Manitowoc-co, who is in charge, directed the hunt. When last seen Lutzke was in the vicinity of Liberty near a shack that is said to be the headquarters of a gang of six young men but he had disappeared when authorities arrived. Milton Lutzke, cousin of Albert, who was arrested by authorities early Thursday morning in connection with the shooting was released when he furnished an alibi.

According to Deputy Mielke, the officers visited the Lutzke home where Lutzke's father said that they hadn't seen the boy for several weeks. Later authorities saw him in a saloon and received a horse from Mark O'Connell of Chilton, owner of the farm on which he was arrested. Lutzke was to deliver the horse at the farm.

STOPPED HERE OVER NIGHT

Early Thursday morning Lutzke left his home for La Crosse and took the authorities were just a few minutes behind him when he passed through St. Nazianz. But he managed to keep ahead of the pursuers and arrived in Appleton about 9:30 Thursday night.
He stopped Deputy Scherck on the street and asked him to direct him to Stark's saloon where he intended to keep the horse in the barn overnight.
At that time Deputy Scherck did not recognize Lutzke.

The officers were suspicious and decided to search the house. A number of boxes and trunks and other furniture was scattered about according to Scherck, and Lutzke was found hiding behind bedding in a corner in the parlor.
Scherck recognized him at once and asked him if he was from Manitowoc but Lutzke said he was from La Crosse and never been in Manitowoc. Later, however, he admitted that he was the man who was sought by Manitowoc-co authorities.

Lutzke is said to fit the description of one of the bandits in the saloon holdup at Sheboygan last week and was reported that one of the bandits was wearing a hat like Lutzke's.

Consul's Wife Describes Escape From Cantonese

Official Abandoned Hope
When First Shells Began to Fall Around Hill

Shanghai.—(P)—Harrowing tales of escapes from death at the hands of lawless Cantonese soldiers, inflamed against foreigners, were related Saturday by Nanking refugees arriving at Shanghai on the steamer Kangwo and Wenchow. The number of refugees brought by the two steamers totaled 220.
Mrs. John K. Davis, wife of the United States consul, was still shaken by the ordeal. She told of the flight of Americans including herself and her two children from the consulate where Cantonese threatened to kill all foreigners. Mrs. Davis and her children arrived with nothing save the clothes on their backs.

Thursday morning, she related, 23
Americans were gathered at the con-sulate—she and Mr. Davis and their two children, Vice Consul Paxton, six costs and was prohibited from driving a car for six months by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Saturday morning. The accident was made in the village of John Gerrets, village

ficer about 7 o'clock Friday evening after the car had gone into the ditch on highway

of $3.30 for drunkenness. Both men were placed in the Little Chute jail

PROBASCIO DISCHARGED IN INGERSOLL DEATH

New York.—(P)—The final chapter, so far as the law is concerned, was written Saturday in the death of Mrs. R.
H. Ingersoll, formerly of Marinette,
Wis., estranged wife of Wallace M.
Probasco, who was shot and killed in his Park-ave apartment, Dec. 19.
Probasco was discharged from custody Saturday. He had been charged with "suspicion of homicide."

Police announced that they were unable to connect Probasco with the shooting of Mrs. Ingersoll. He had contended that she shot him and then killed herself when he told her that he was breaking off relations with her and returning to his wife.

JUDGE SETS ASIDE JURY VERDICT IN DAMAGE CASE

Milwaukee.—(P)—Holding that the evidence did not warrant a verdict of $22,500, Judge John T. Gregory Friday set aside the jury award returned in favor of Frank N. Grass, Sturgeon Bay. The judgment for Mr. Grass, a brother of Circuit Court Judge Henry Grass of Green Bay, was awarded in January for injuries received when he was in an automobile accident at a plant discharged a blast in Grass's face while he was inspecting the machine.
The accident occurred in the plant of the Door County Fruit Growers association in Sturgeon Bay, and the judgment was returned against the Western and Campbell company, installers of the machine.

Indian Distance Runners Uphold Tribal Records

Austin, Texas.—(P)—Unable to understand the white man's interest in athletes able to run more than 80 miles with little outward indication of fatigue, six Tarahumara Indians rested here Saturday satisfied with having upheld tribal traditions in a marathon which featured Texas university's relays.
Although but two of the three Indian youths and only one of the trio of dusky maidens of high school age finished their respective 89 and 25 mile grinds Friday, the others admitted defeat only after unusual exhibitions of endurance.
Tomas Zarifo, 38, senior athlete from Sierra Madre mountains of Mexico, and Jose Torres, 24-year-old missionary men, a marine officer and 11 marines. The marines had come ashore Tuesday to guard the consulate.

Mr. Davis ordered the marines to put away their arms as it might provoke an attack.
At 10 o'clock Thursday morning word was received that Cantonese troops had begun looting, then it was reported the British and Japanese consuls had been killed and consulates looted. Mr. Davis ordered the men to resume their arms and the party started for Socony hill, which had been designated as the concentration point,
with the stars and stripes at the head.
Hardly had the party left the con-sulate when soldiers in Nationalist uniforms fired on them. They kept up constant sniping. She said she reached Socony hill thoroughly exhausted; the men had to help her along. The sniping grew heavier until, when a half mile from the hill, they were almost surrounded. There they took

FLORIDA MURDERS MYSTIFY OFFICERS

Bodies of Couple Found in Home Ten Days After Slay-ing Occurred

Miami, Fla.—(P)—A house in a secluded section that for ten days held behind locked doors the mutilated bodies of Mrs. Edward Nevers, 42, and a man thought to be her husband schooled to movements of the police Saturday.
A blood-stained hatchet and a whiskey still found in a garage from which the Nevers' expensive automobile had disappeared only added mysterious aspects to the slayings. Police were searching for a man known as a friend of the family who until recently resided in the home.

A business woman called at the house Friday night and unable to get a response to repeated calls called J.
A. Keith, watchman. The man summoned officers, who found the bodies
in a bedroom.
Mrs. Nevers' body, the head cut and bruised, was seated upright in a chair while that of the man, identified by acquaintances as Nevers, was stuffed in a hall closet, a rope around his neck.
There were no signs of a struggle. A strong box containing jewels and deeds to property was found open and empty.

COURT HOUSE CLOCK WATCHERS ARE LOST

"Time, time, who's got the time?"
In fact, the correct time was a rather hard thing to obtain at the courthouse Saturday morning and those who had "good" watches confessed the fact after a time, otherwise they were swamped with requests for "Can you give me the right time, please?"
The new clock system has been installed at the courthouse but will not be in working order until next Tuesday. Most of the old clocks have been allowed to run down and stop.
There were only two clocks in good running order Saturday morning.

THREATEN SUIT TO COLLECT DOG TAXES

The lists of delinquent dog taxes are much larger than usual this year and steps are being taken by John A.
Lonsford, district attorney to start suit against those people who have not yet paid the tax, according to John E.
Hantschel, county clerk. According to Mr. Hantschel there are 88 delinquents in the town of Maine and other towns and villages are returning delinquents in as great proportion.
"The number of delinquent dog taxes is unusually large this year," said Mr. Hantschel, "and suits are to be started against every one who has not paid within the next week."

men were held to the grand jury

BEGIN INQUIRY INTO CHARGES BY EX-GUARD

Legislative Group Probes
"Brutality and Favoritism" in Prison

Waupun.—(P)—Judson Montgomery, dubbed "the fair-headed boy" of the state penitentiary by W. H. Martin, discharged prison guard, took the witness stand before the legislative visiting committee here Saturday and denied all charges made by the former guard that he had enjoyed special privileges as a prisoner. Montgomery is serving a 14 years sentence for manslaughter, imposed when he killed three persons with his automobile in Milwaukee.
Assemblyman Edward S. Hilker, questioned Montgomery on the charge which Martin had made. After Montgomery had denied that he had received special privileges or sought them, Mr. Hilker asked:
"Did you ever receive orders given by Martin?"
"In no way," replied the prisoner.
"Did you ever have any argument with Martin?" The former guard had charged that he could not get along with Montgomery and that Montgomery "went over his head."
"I was constantly told I was trying to run the farm," the prisoner replied. "I was not interested in the farm. The kitchen was all that I cared about." Montgomery is cook on prison farm No. 4.

Waupun.—(P)—Called as the first witness Friday before the joint legislative committee which is investigating charges of favoritism, discrimination and brutality in handling convicts at the Wisconsin State prison was William H. Martin, former discharged prison employee, reiterated charges which he made to Governor Fred R. Zimmerman which brought about the inquiry.

Martin asserted that Judson T.
Montgomery, wealthy Milwaukeean, who is serving a 14 year sentence for manslaughter, was punished for running down a man. Killing three persons with his automobile in Milwaukee ten years ago, is known as the "Candy Kid" of the prison and sleeps in a large and luxuriously furnished room.

Lester Clark, former Lancaster banker, has a "soft job" in the office of the deputy warden and enjoys many privileges, Martin told the committee.
Montgomery's room is furnished with a rug and curtains, and he has a special soft mattress on his bed," Martin declared. "The room is so good that when Montgomery was sick for a week, the deputy warden moved into it and slept there himself the week." Approximately 110 witnesses remain to be examined.

TELLS OF BEATING

Martin also testified that a convict named McCannough was punished for attempting to escape two years ago by being shackled to a cell door and beating with an iron shoe cane by Deputy Warden Taft.

Martin, however under cross examination, admitted that many of the charges including the McCannough beating, were based on rumors. He also admitted that he has no facts upon which to base his charges that favoritism is shown convicts because of lodge memberships or influential friends.

Dunning company, was elected secretary of the Bergstrom company and he

APPLETON OUT OF DEBATE TITLE RACE

Affirmative Team Defeats
Manitowoc but Negatives
Lose to Green Bay

Affirmative teams won and negatives teams lost in the three schools of the Appleton, East Green Bay and Manitowoc triangle of the Fox River Valley "Fetensic Debate" conference met at the three schools Friday night. In each case two to one decisions were given by the judges.
Green Bay High school won the triangle because it had the highest percentage in the group. It will compete with the winners from the Sheboygan, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac triangle and the West Green Bay, Marinette and Oconto triangle, April 8.

The Manitowoc negative team debated the Appleton affirmative here and the local negative teams went to East Green Bay. Judges at the local debate were W. N. James of Oshkosh state normal school, Bruno Jacobs of Ripon college, and C. E. Watson, superintendent of schools at Waupun.
All of the speakers presented convincing speeches, the judges and audience agreed. Members of the affir-

Russell Denyes, and Jean Cannon, and of the negative, Ethel Stallman, Algisius Gage and Beatrice Segal.
Adam Aitchison, debate coach, accompanied the negative squad to Green Bay.

A string trio of high school students played several selections prior to the debate and while the judges retired to make their decisions. Members of the group were Carl Jebe, cellist, Wilmar Schlafer, violinist, and Virginia Baker, pianist. Richard Joyce, baritone,

TWO WOUNDS CLOSED BY LEGISLATURE IN THIS WEEK'S WORK

Confirmation of Nemacheck and Duffy Climaxes Two Political Rows

Madison, Wis.—Using the axe on several major bills and adopting a score of resolutions, the Wisconsin legislature put in a full week's work with the major debates and one night session outstanding.

The report of the legislative committee investigating conditions in the state highway department was given to the law makers, climaxed weeks of hearings, while the senate took another step in virtual settlement of the controversy by confirming the appointment of J. T. Nemacheck, LaCrosse, as a highway commissioner. Coincident with the report of the committee came a bill advocating the abolishment of the present commission and substituting a full-time commission to be appointed by the governor.

The committee's report on the department stated that there was no ulterior motive behind the LaCrosse man's appointment. The removal of John T. Donaghy from the office of chief highway engineer which action resulted in the investigation, was termed "hasty."

The senate also confirmed the appointment of Walter A. Duffy, Ladysmith, as commissioner of agriculture, replacing John D. Jones, Jr.

Taxations of cigarettes and cosmetics, advocated by Assemblyman Helen P. Thompson, was killed in the lower house after being made the special order of business. The assembly adopted the socialist resolution calling for government control of coal mines and as a result the question will be submitted to the people of the state in referendum form.

Originally the resolution would have been introduced in congress to take such action, but an amendment provided for submission to popular vote.

The assembly also refused to concur with the senate in commanding former Senator Irvine to accept a federal work in the enactment of a federal dairy law. The Smith bill on taxation of leaf tobacco was ended engrossed and the Huber bill, relating to "alum" labels on baking powder finally received similar attention.

A night session was necessary in order to secure action on the Huber bill.

The senate refused to concur in the action of the assembly cutting the national guard appropriation by $15,000. The upper house also killed the election memorial bill.

At the close of the session, vice-president and congressmen elected.

Introduction of Senator Johnson's conservation bill, favoring the creation of a conservation commission consisting of six members, also featured senate session.

Assemblyman Ingalls' substitute personal property tax bill, calling for an increase in income taxes in order to offset the reduction in revenues, was presented at the final meeting of the lower house.

The senate held brief sessions the closing day, the senate spending most of the abbreviated period criticizing absent members for their neglect of senatorial meetings on Fridays.

PENNEY CO. OBSERVES ITS SILVER JUBILEE

The J. C. Penney Co. store in Appleton, with the 712 other stores managed by the company, will observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the company next month. The stores are scattered from coast to coast.

For a memento offering, the company went outside its regular lines and selected a beautiful pattern in a 26-piece set of electric silverplate tableware. This is befitting the occasion, being silverware for a silver event.

Manager J. R. Whitman said that the executives of the J. C. Penney company had been planning for the occasion for more than a year, "but," he added, "after all, the celebration is to be more a recognition of the generous response that has come to our efforts and an expression of our thankfulness and appreciation to the public than a mere scramble for business."

"In turning this milestone in the history of our company," he continued, "we are planning for the future where greater responsibility will rest upon us; for it must be admitted that in our rapid growth and expansion we must make our service better and better or suffer a reaction which will undo much of our accomplishments of the past."

"No business can stand still. It must go forward or fall behind. Naturally we shall work hard to push forward. My home is here. My financial interests are here. There is no place that I can think of in which I had rather live than here. The people here have been very generous and by serving them better day by day in every way, I expect that the store of the J. C. Penney company will not only push forward in the confidence of the public but will take its place side by side with every interest that has local betterment at stake."

SHOW BARTON PICTURE AT CHURCH SERVICE

"The Man Nobody Knows," a motion picture adapted from the well-known book by Bruce Barton of the same title will be presented at the evening service of the First Congregational church at 1:30 Sunday evening.

Dr. Earl L. Baker, pastor of the church, said that the picture is a "Nearer My God to Thee" story. It is a story of a man who lived in the time of the American Revolution and who was a man of great faith and courage.

BRITISH TOMMIES IN CHINA

World War scenes are being reenacted in China now, where British Tommies are fighting side by side with American marines to protect lives of foreigners. Above a detachment of British soldiers is shown ready for any emergency in Shanghai. In the background is a barricade such as has been erected around the foreign quarter in many of the Chinese cities.

Racine Builds Second Municipal Golf Course To Meet Demands Of Players

APPLETON golfers who have complained because of the crowded condition of the municipal course in Oshkosh where some 18,000 games were played in 1926 would have real cause for complaint in Racine if their games were among the 35,666 played on the Washington park municipal course last year and that in spite of an adverse year in which golf was almost ruined by bad weather. But on days when the sun was bright the course was crowded to capacity and the ingenuity of caretakers was taxed to enable the great hordes of golfers to get in their nine or eighteen holes.

Racine, like other cities with municipal golf courses, is put to the necessity of providing additional playing fields. This year six holes of another nine hole course will be put into use in Shoop park and by next year the hole course will have two nine holes.

But Racine park commissioners doubt whether this will do much to relieve congestion because of the tremendous growth in interest in the game. Because of an unfortunate experience with a former greenskeeper Racine has the use of the Washington park course in 1925 but anyone with an eye could see there was a vast increase in the number of golfers in 1926. It would not surprise Racine officials if 50,000 games are played in Washington park and in Shoop park this year.

The Racine park commission has a peculiar method of keeping its books which makes it rather difficult to determine profit or loss from golf but it appears that the municipal course more than paid its way.

55 CENTS A GAME

Racine charges only 15 cents for a game of 9 holes and last year 35,666 permits for 9-hole games were issued resulting in a revenue of $5,229 from this source. Whether this revenue was sufficient to pay the cost of operating the course could not be determined without many hours of checking over the books but the total figures on golf course maintenance, which includes cafeteria, concessions, sale of golf supplies and operation of lockers and showers indicates a profit of between three and four hundred dollars. The total revenue from all sources was $14,757.52 of which only $5,930 was from playing permits. Other revenues were $2,734 from the sale of golf clubs, $1,990 from the sale of golf balls, $151 from the rental and repair of golf clubs and $2,700 from the operation of the cafeteria. The cafeteria, at which meals were served, showed a substantial loss, it was said.

The total expenses charged to the golf course, which includes the cafeteria and concessions, was $14,707.52, divided as follows: For care of "lawns," which includes fairways, greens and property about the clubhouse, $3,635.45; for care of trees and shrubs, $101.80; for repairs on buildings, $253; for general games, which includes the salary of the caretaker, $1,000; for the cost of the golf course, and all other costs not listed elsewhere $3,855; There also was a charge of $3,566.53 for supplies. There also was an item of $363.05 for a new caddy house.

The golf course is a part of Washington park, one of the largest in the city and men employed in the golf course also work around the rest of the park. A large portion of the park is reserved for picnics and social gatherings and it is covered with trees and shrubs. It requires a great deal of bookkeeping to separate the golf club costs from the cost of maintaining the remainder of the park.

Lockers and showerbaths are provided at the clubhouse. Lockers are rented by the season and for daily use but showers are free. There is some revenue from the rental of towels and soap. The Racine clubhouse is rather an elaborate affair and the entire layout is one of the finest in the middle-west.

The problem in Racine, like in Milwaukee, Kenosha and other cities, is to take care of the ever increasing army of golfers. From early in the morning until dark there is a steady procession of men and women through the clubhouse to the first tee and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays the course is exceedingly crowded. It is not at all unusual for golfers to stand in line for an hour to get a chance to play. When men and women will do that it means there is a terrific interest in the game.

There are several excellent public fee courses within easy driving distance of Kenosha and a great many players have "graduated" from the municipal links to these public fee grounds and to private clubs but the number who forsake the city course each year is made up a couple of times over by persons who are "just taking up the game."

SENATE TO INVESTIGATE STATE'S WATER POWER

Madison, Wis.—(47)—Furthering the policy of investigating natural resources which the senate Friday appointed Sen. Daggett, Milwaukee and Senator Barker, Antigo, as members of the joint legislative committee directed to investigate the water power situation in the state.

The committee, following the suggestions of a joint resolution introduced by Assemblyman Reis, are expected to gather all possible information concerning water power in Wisconsin, its development, utilization, control and regulation.

"There is a great need for this study," Mr. Reis said, "in view of the fact that the state is rich in water power and the benefits of this great natural resource accrue almost exclusively to private interests, in large part from outside the state, rather than to all of the people."

Senator Carroll's bill to permanently mark the Michigan-Wisconsin boundary was ordered engrossed. This provides for a commission from both states and if passed will be messaged to Governor Fred Green of Michigan asking cooperation in the work.

Several of the major bills, whose authors were absent, were laid over until Wednesday leading that calendar to the limit. This was done to allow a majority of senators to hear the bills, Wednesdays and Thursdays being the two days in the week when few of the legislators are absent.

GIRLS WOULD PROLONG SORORITY RUSH SEASON

A unanimous opinion in favor of second semester sorority rushing was expressed by the Y. W. C. A. of Lawrence colleges in a meeting Thursday. Unanimity of the freshmen with the sorority situation in a school early in the fall was the principal reason cited by the girls. Greater democracy would result from a prolonged rushing season, it was believed, as the freshmen would not be divided into small social groups as early in the year.

FIND MRS. HOUGH'S BODY

Discovery in the Potomac River near the capital of the body of Mrs. Gladys W. Hough served merely to deepen the mystery of her disappearance from Washington three months before. Police officers are here seen bringing the body ashore. Although there was no indication of the cause of death, Dr. Knute M. Hough, Mrs. Hough's husband, was ordered held in Albany, Ore., whence he had come to recover from a nervous breakdown. Previously, Dr. Hough had stated that he last saw his wife when she walked out of the house in the middle of the night.

Church Attendance Means Little To College Men

"Thou shalt not take the name of thy God in vain," "Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy" are the least important of the Ten Commandments to members of the First Methodist church, according to a survey of the relative importance of the commands of the decalogue taken among the individuals at the last meeting of the class, which consists of Lawrence college students. The group point of view will be decided at the next meeting of the class at 6:30 Sunday evening at the church.

These two commandments were third and fourth in the Protestant Bible. The students agreed with Moses in their belief in importance of the first and second commandments. "Thou shalt have no other gods before me and thou shalt not make unto thyself a graven image."

"Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which thy God giveth thee" comes next in the Lawrence students' list.

Next is "Thou shalt not steal" and then "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

One student felt that the one God commandment rated tenth place while another believed it was the only commandment necessary that it be person believed in and observed this one, there would naturally follow an obedience to all others.

Thirteen would place "Thou shalt not take the name of thy God in vain" in the eighth, ninth or tenth places, whereas it placed third in the Bible. A changed point of view in the way to keep the Sabbath day was shown in 14 votes to put it in ninth place, and seven in the fifth to the eighth.

Almost half of the students put the father and mother commandment in third place. The vote on the adultery verdict was divided; seven gave it sixth place; six, second place; four, seventh, as it stands in the Bible.

CABINET OUTLINES SENIOR ACTIVITIES

Vaudeville Show Will Be Presented at Assembly Meeting on April 8

Senior class activities for the remaining weeks of the year at Appleton high school were recently planned by the class cabinet. April 8 was the date set for the senior vaudeville show to be presented at an assembly meeting of the student body. John Prampson and Miss Lois Kloeck will be student chairmen of the affair and Miss Ruth Saecker will be faculty chairman.

Miss Louise Marston and Miss Ruth Mielke were appointed chairmen of the senior banquet on May 12. The senior class play will be given May 20 at Fischers' Appleton theatre, but chairmen for the event will not be selected until after the cast has been named, so that no duplications will be made.

Miss Blanche McCarthy will be in charge of the class day exercises June 1, and Miss Saecker of the commencement exercises on June 2. Members of the class will be asked this week their ideas about a class reunion picnic and banquet.

"A fresh air week" was suggested. The purpose of the program would be to encourage students to leave the school building by 4 o'clock in the afternoon. This would not refer to working on the school publications or other activities. A petition will be presented to the student council on the subject.

Veteran Tells Why He Would Return To France With Legion This Year

WITH 100 COMPETING, THESE THREE WORLD WAR VETERANS WON THE PRIZES IN A NATIONAL AMERICAN LEGION CONTEST FOR THE BEST ESSAYS ON THE 1927 LEGION CONVENTION IN PARIS. LEFT TO RIGHT THEY ARE ROBERT MCKINNIS, NEW BRIGHTON, PA., FIRST PRIZE; FAUSTUS P. HARDESTY, BUFFALO, SECOND; HARRY C. WESTOVER, SANTA ANA, CALIF., THIRD.

Following is the essay on "Why I Want to Go to France With the Legion in 1927" that won a prize of $350 for Robert McKinnis, of New Brighton, Pa. McKinnis, an infantry private, in the World War, was wounded and captured by the Germans.

BY ROBERT MCKINNIS
World War Infantry Private

I want to go back to the land of romance once more—to march down the sweltering roads again with the memory of a catenae gang of doughboys tramping along to the songs of "Hinky Dinky Parley Yoo," "Goodbye, Broadway," "Hello France," and dear old "Maiden."

I want to be a part of that dust-covered column once more: to live again the things that made it hell, yet made us love it, too—lines of sweat streaking down dusty faces and necks;

dangling hands swelling up to numbness as pack straps tighten across the shoulders; noisy mess wagons with clanking pans rolling along in the rear; a passing outfit of "Frogs" trudging out of the lines for a rest; ambulances jammed with muffled, bloody, grinning Yanks going back to "Brighty," and the distant boom of big guns banging away over the hills in front of us.

I'd like to crawl back into a certain cramped and water-soaked dugout up near Touland and watch it rain, rain, rain. I want to be once more in a wheat field below the old chateau in Conde Libre and watch for Jerry's heads popping up and down in the trenches across the Marne. I want to live again the night of July 11, when they poured up through the field to wipe us out, and to see if the same little trench is still there where we found Ed and Charles four days later, leaning over their rifles on top of the parapet just as the Jermies had knocked them off.

I want to live all the nights again, to see the bursting shrapnel and to hear it whistling for its victims; to hear the frantic cries of "gas," repeated down the line; to be listening to the dismal moan of the "G. I." cans going over to wake up the boys from Berlin. I want to crouch there in my dugout, listening and wondering, listening to the dull heavy boom of far-away cannon rumbling through the night. Listening to the drip, drip, drip of the everlasting rain out in the darkness. I want to be there wondering—always wondering what it's all about. I want to see French hills, French fields, French sky, French people once again. I want to see the kids—to know that they've learned to smile since the war. I want to go back to France once more—not to seek new joys or thrills, but to revive the dreams of old that are fading with the years.

TENNIS PLAYERS PREPARE FOR CITY ASSOCIATION

A small group of Appleton tennis enthusiasts at a meeting Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of forming a city net association, made plans for final organization at a meeting at 8 o'clock, next Thursday evening at the association. All tennis players of Appleton are invited to attend. Appleton must have a city association to join the state group recently organized. The state association is affiliated with the national organization. No player is eligible for a championship tournament unless he is a member of the national association. Promising Appleton players could not win honors in the game unless the local association is formed.

Two Appleton men, A. P. Jensen, and Dr. R. V. Lundquist, will represent the city in Oshkosh Saturday when the state association is permanently organized. It was started at a meeting at Oshkosh a few weeks ago but only temporary officers were elected. Now permanent leaders will be chosen and a constitution which has been prepared by a committee will be adopted. More than a dozen state cities are represented in the association.

SCHILLER

Regular Grand and the New Panagrand

THE Schiller factory has two divisions: In the one division a fine Grand is being manufactured at a medium price. In this division, the Schiller Company also make a great many Grands for other piano manufacturers.

IN the other division only the New Schiller Panagrand is made—embodying the result of over fifty years of research work and the final development of the only marked improvement in Grand Piano construction. This new invention adds great strength to the Grand and preserves the arch or crown of the sounding board, resulting in a pronounced resonant tone.

The SCHILLER PANAGRANT is the embodiment of the highest musical ideals and of the most durable construction. The ACTION in the Schiller Panagrand is the finest and most costly made.

Studies Auto Industry To Tell How Cars Are Made

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
The present-day automobile is the product of a series of tests so detailed and exacting as to make an observer believe the automobile industry is the most thorough most painstaking, most nearly perfect of all.

Yet a tour through the research laboratories of any automobile plant leaves the feeling that the automobile is far from perfect.

This is the reaction I had after going through every department of a great Detroit automobile plant to learn about the industry's latest advances.

I have followed the mind of the automobile engineer, in its process of working out a new thought, followed the thought through the research stage, through its adoption in the complicated mechanics of automobile manufacture, and on to the final tests through which every car has to go before being approved as a finished product.

Have watched finished cars being driven under the best and worst of motor conditions, abused to the utmost to find out whether it would stand the gaff in the hands even of the most inconsiderate owner.

NOTHING STILL PERFECT
The foundation of all this thoroughness are the research efforts of a corps of engineers working constantly with new formulas, new methods, new materials in order to improve the automobile. It is in the automotive research laboratory that the how, the why, and wherefore are investigated.

Here we find every single part of the automobile still under test for improvements. Here we have to decide that the automobile is far from being a perfect mechanism.

No better can this be illustrated than in the research activities concentrated on the power plant of the automobile, trying to find out just what combustion really is.

FUEL KNOCK A MYSTERY
Perhaps the most important efforts in automotive research today are being concentrated on the problem of fuel and its possibilities. A large part of the automotive research laboratory is given over to the chemist, who is trying by test tube and retort to discover what happens in the engine when a fuel explodes.

There is the mysterious fuel knock, for instance. What it is no one knows. No one knows even how it happens. But it's there. Chemists are trying to reproduce it in the laboratory under conditions by which they will be able to learn all about it.

They have devised a chemical that will in a way eliminate the knock. But how remains a mystery.

They're trying to reproduce the action of this chemical with ordinary fuel, under conditions that enable them to see the action, to measure the gases going in and coming out, and to record temperatures, pressures and other factors of importance.

This search for a more efficient fuel is being made not only in the chemical laboratory, but in a shop where special engines, ranging from one to six and eight cylinders, are being run day and night for the testing of some peculiar idea or hunch of an engineer.

ENGINE MAY BE REDESIGNED
In connection with this fuel research, the research engineers are trying to find ways of improving design of the engine to increase its efficiency.

At one research laboratory a special two-cylinder engine is being run with tubes reaching from the combustion chambers to burettes where the exhaust gases can be measured. The idea is to discover the type or grade of mixture that goes into each cylinder.

This engine at the same time permits the engineer to discover a way of redesigning the intake manifold so that equal mixtures of gas and air may be delivered in equal proportions to all cylinders. This is one of the biggest problems of the engineer today, for it is well known that present design permits one or two cylinders to get more gas than is needed, while the others may get less, producing considerable waste and inefficiency.

Another one-cylinder engine is designed so that gases may be caught at the flash point, or just before the combustion, to study what happens to the mixture as it enters the cylinder.

Still another one-cylinder engine is arranged so that compression can be varied. Alongside this is a valve and double cup apparatus by which a standard fuel of which all characteristics are known and also an untested fuel are permitted to enter the engine. By valving first one gas and then the other into the cylinder, the engineer seeks to determine the knock characteristics of the test fuel.

BETTER EFFICIENCY IS NEEDED
One engineer is devoting his efforts entirely to redesigning the cylinder head so as to raise compression and power of the engine, without affecting the efficiency of the fuel in combustion.

Another is trying to improve the carburetor, the seat of numerous familiar troubles.

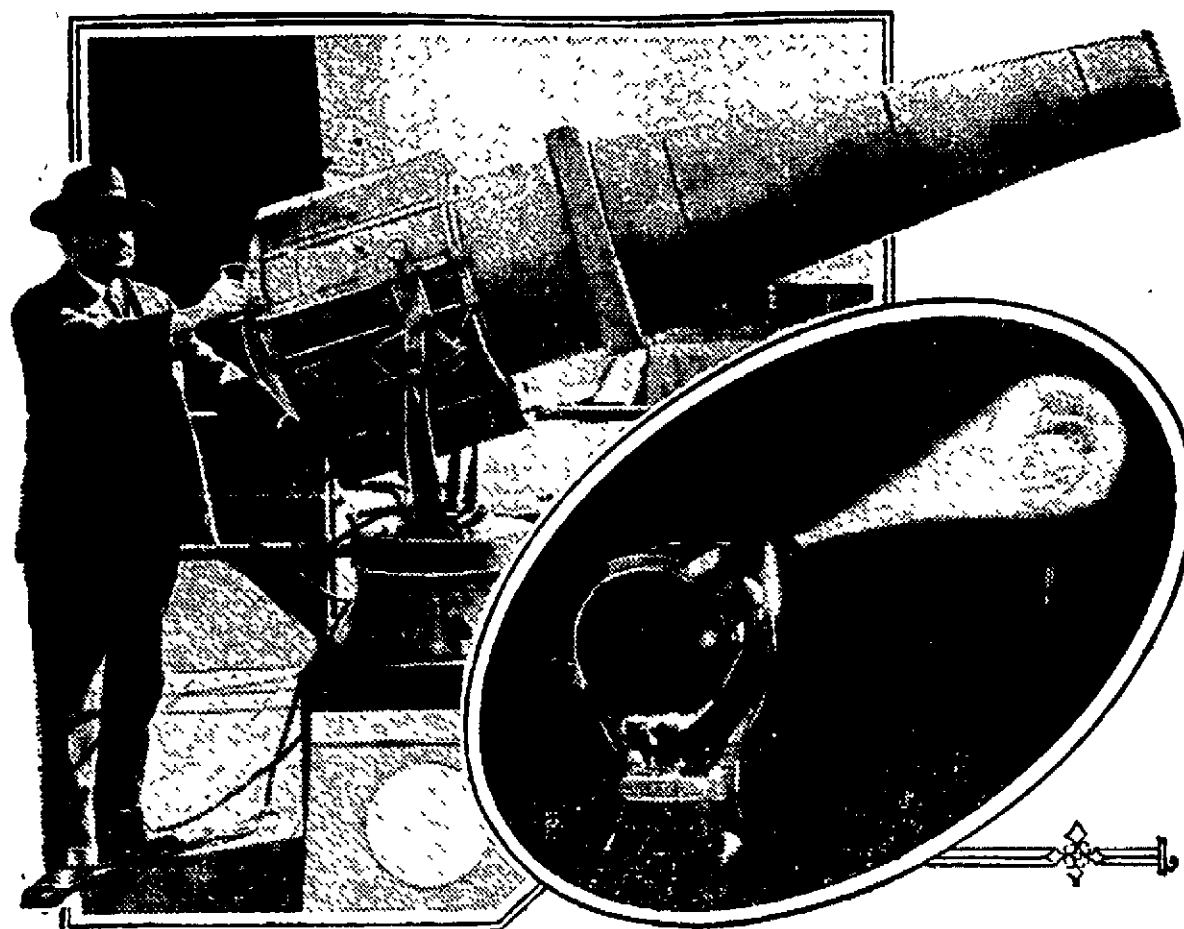

Still others seek better methods of regulating the mixture of air and gas which is fed to the cylinders. Ef-

BABY CAN'T TALK PLAINLY--BUT DRUMS TALK FOR HER

Marjorie Jane Goltman is only 16 months of age and doesn't talk very plainly yet, but she can make a set of trap drums get up and give a speech. The Cleveland tot recently played with an orchestra at an entertainment and more than 500 persons marveled at her uncanny sense of rhythm. She can play a mouth organ, too.

With its tapering barrel pointed into the night sky like some great naval monster, this long range searchlight gun can shoot pictures or images upon clouds five miles above the earth. D'Arcy Ryan, the gun's inventor, is shown at the "trigger."

Emblems of vanished Russian pomp and power -- a nuptial crown, an imperial brooch, a royal snuff box -- go under the rude hammer of the auctioneer soon in London. The magnificent state jewels of the late Czar Nicholas and the Czarina are to be sold to anyone wanting a nuptial crown, an imperial brooch, or a royal snuff box badly enough to offer the highest bid.

Mrs. Tabby Cat announces the removal of her family from their former residence under the South porch. More commodious accommodations in somebody's back shed. An addition to her family has made larger quarters imperative. Mrs. Cat explained. But then the moving problem is a simple one for her, particularly since, her offspring, Kitty Cat, indicated a fondness for travel -- even if she doesn't evince it here.

THE SITUATION IN CHINA

The situation in China suddenly has become acute. It was precisely such a situation as the state department at Washington and the foreign office of Great Britain foresaw when they dispatched cruisers and marines to Shanghai weeks ago. The wisdom of this step is now justified, for without these forces both for the direct protection of foreigners and for impressing the Chinese authorities with demands to safeguard the lives of those outside the immediate relief of the warships, the nationals of foreign countries in China would be helpless and exposed to wholesale massacre. We have had experience with China before and we knew what to expect, at least fortunately the government did. Some of the "antis" in congress threw a fit when the warships were ordered to Shanghai, but so stiff got no farther in the face of this crisis than it has gotten in our dealings with Mexico.

The state department announces it is one hundred per cent back of Admiral Williams, head of the Asiatic fleet to whom it gives carte blanche authority, and of Rear Admiral Hough, American naval commander at Nanking, who with the British commander has issued an ultimatum to the Chinese nationalists demanding that they produce more than a hundred American men, women and children still in the seething river city, or take the consequences. A number of Americans and British have been killed by mobs at Nanking. The guns of American and British warships are trained on the city and if more blood is shed the Chinese will pay for it dearly.

News of the ultimatum and its backing by the state department will have the applause of the American people. There is no reason why we of all nations should have to submit to indignity and assassination by the Chinese. Furthermore, it is good to see a display of genuine old-fashioned, hard-boiled Americanism. It takes us back to the days of Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt, when American prestige, American rights and the lives of American nationals meant something in our foreign relations. It makes the croakings of our pacifists, isolationists and obstructionists recede faintly and dimly into the distance. If Mr. Borah and some others want to know why it was necessary to send warships and marines to Shanghai, they have the answer in Admiral Hough's ultimatum and the uncertain fate of hundreds of American men, women and children in interior China exposed to the fury of oriental fanaticism, stimulated by Russian bolshevism.

THE LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The legislature has been in session nearly three months and little to its credit is yet to be recorded. True, it authorized the appropriation of additional funds for completing the tuberculin test of cattle, but that was merely responding to a routine duty. Most of the time has been taken up with fruitless discussion of resolutions concerning foreign affairs and other policies of the federal government which are none of its concern, with resolutions of inquiry, the conducting of investigations and other incidentals. There have been silly performances like the refusal of the assembly to give Senator Lenroot credit for his great work in behalf of the dairy interests of Wisconsin. Such exhibitions of prejudice and narrow-mindedness are childish in the extreme. We have heard of a lot of talk about what we ought to do in Mexico and Nicaragua, and in opposition to the world court. We have had a prolonged investigation of the highway department with inconclusive results, and a fight in a senate committee which made both the committee and the senate the laughing stock of the state.

While all this by-play has been going on, nothing has been done of constructive benefit to the state. The all-important questions of taxation, economy and business administration of state affairs have received comparatively no attention. Not a thing has been done yet toward instituting a responsible budget system in state expenditures, or in revising taxes downward, or in giving relief to the classes who were notoriously discriminated against by the last tax measure under Governor Blaine. Conservation is ignored as though it were of no consequence to anyone. Indeed, most of the measures covered in the governor's message to the legislature remain untouched. Three months have been wasted in controversy, political maneuvers and reprisals, and in the debating of senseless proposals. Up to date, the people would have been much better off had the legislature not been in session. It is a costly two-ring circus. Why can't the legislature settle down and transact its business as a body of representative citizens should do? Or is it bent on demonstrating its incompetence by holding to its present course to the end?

REGULATING THE DEER SEASON

A bill has passed the assembly of the legislature which would advance the deer hunting season to November 10th, and which would permit the killing of does. This measure can have but one effect, if not one purpose, namely, to make it easier for hunters to kill deer. We have passed the point in Wisconsin in our experience with hunting of all kinds and with conservation where we ought to tolerate such a law on the statute books. It is contrary to common sense and to the experience of other states. It is wrong because it will hasten the extermination of deer in Wisconsin. This it will do by inviting more hunters both from within and without the state to flock to the northern woods at a season when the weather and conditions are more favorable to the hunter. Moreover, it is during the heavy rutting season when does will unquestionably be killed by the hundred.

If it is the desire of the people and the policy of the state to destroy our deer as rapidly as possible, this bill should be passed. The policy of the state, however, should be to protect deer and to make their killing as difficult as possible. Every obstacle should be put in the way of the hunter that will afford protection, and yet give him a "chance" to get one deer. Our laws for the conservation of wild life should be so rigid, and their enforcement so strict, as to make it almost impossible for hunters to go into the woods and bring back game; indeed, the less the better. The killing of deer is almost solely a sport. There is no need to take them for food, and that is not the principal object. Much of the carcass is generally given away, and often much of it is not used. Deer are worth more to Wisconsin alive than dead.

A good many of our politicians are deer hunters. This may account for the drafting of such bill as that which has passed the assembly, and for other deplorable laws in the past which have done anything but promote genuine conservation of wild life. As a rule only the hunters are heard in questions of this kind. True, the Izaak Walton league and similar organizations take a hand, but they cannot of themselves control legislation. It is time the people of Wisconsin began to take a real interest in conservation and to demand laws that are in their interest rather than in the interest of a few. In the conservation of deer, we can learn something from Pennsylvania, and from other states which are taking up the problem with a real desire to protect game and to serve public interests.

OLD MASTERS

I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contained: I stand and look at them long and long.

They do not sweat and whine about their condition:
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins;
They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God;

Not one is dissatisfied—Not one is demoted with the mania of owning things;
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago;
Not one is respectable or industrious over the whole earth.

—Walt Whitman: From "Song of Myself."

LET THEM BE FIREFMEN

A woman can dress in six minutes faster than a man, according to a recent test. Again we point with shame to the collar button. . . . But then women's clothes these days consist of more of what they do not wear than what they wear. . . . The boys will have one advantage this summer, though. There's still something left for them to take off. . . . Women these days spend most of their time dressing on their faces. We wonder how a woman in this ruffous day really looks. . . . A married man used to have to wait for his wife to dress when they were going out. Now it's she who does the waiting. . . . Women certainly have been emancipated, as far as clothes are concerned.

THE IRREFRAGABLE ORDER OF OPTIMISTS

Last month we listed here the prize pessimists, or at least the outstanding ones. We invited readers to send in further negative but with keen foresight we inserted in the invitation a clause prohibiting the nomination of any regular physician. Aside from this restriction readers had full liberty to express their sentiments. The votes, therefore, have been slow to come in. It seems that the plain people, when they can't voice their ideas about us regular doctors, have little derogatory to say.

But here is a remarkable remark, an extraordinary bit of testimony from a reader who I like to believe, is one of a goodly number. If they will only let us hear from them, who qualify for membership in the Irrefragable Order of Optimists:

"My doctor . . . has told me often that I can rely absolutely on what you say. I don't believe in colds, any more, or pores, or the dangers of wet clothes, or rheumatism or any of the rest of the things you are trying to convince your readers are not really true.

"I am raising a daughter, now 4½ years old, according to your teachings, and believe me, I have a hard time doing it. With a grandfather in the same town and a grandmother a few hours away. Worse still, grandmother is a rabid, fanatical Christian Scientist.

"My daughter has never had a cold that I cannot trace directly to some one with whom she had come in contact. Incidentally, I could write reams about the Christian Science religion and the foolishness of it and the trouble it can cause in a family where the afflicted member is such a fanatic.

"I intend to write about my appendectomy. I agree with you that it was an entirely unpleasant. I had a local anesthetic. Most people seem to think it is barbarous to give a local anesthetic for such an operation, but I think it is the only thing. The only regret is that I didn't watch the operation. It was over in about twenty-five minutes, and there were only two stitches, though a separate incision was made for a drainage tube.

"The point I wish to make is that I don't believe there are good grounds, in most cases at least, for people who have had operations to talk the rest of their lives about how terrible the ' ordeal ' is. Once in a while somebody succumbs to illness or complications following an operation, but this is so exceptional that it becomes news.

"One other thing. I wish you'd write about the women who scare prospective mothers about childbirth with tales of horror or exaggerated tales of their own unhappy experiences or the experiences of others they have heard about. At best childbirth is no picnic, but neither is it anything like the frightful event which these gossips would make the prospective mother anticipate."

Now, then, friends, send in your votes. We do not seek testimonials about wonderful doctors or the kind nurses or other things of an individual sort. What we want to receive is your own experience. If you have had experience which ought to be made known to the world. Don't you see how the yammering about the awful time I had when I had my operation has done a lot of harm in the world? Don't you know that the frightful boggy stories which the female of the species tells her younger inexperienced sister are a cause of much unhappiness and trouble? I wish you'd write about it. Should you not tell your experience in order to counteract in a measure these bad influences? Isn't a bit of optimism in order, now that we have plumbed the depths and surveyed the vast area of pessimism?

Granted the regular or ordinary doctors, the real doctors, are a pretty punk lot and have their queer ways and all that. They're willing to shoot the blame for anything there to blame for, but one thing no pessimist can blame on the doctor is Adhesions. Another is Zoster. In between there are several other things. Do I hear a second?

THE CITY HOME GARDEN

Washington, D. C. — In the greater part of the United States the time is at hand for getting out the spade, hoe, and rake and starting a little preliminary work in the garden. That is, unless your home is in a city apartment and your garden is a box on a window ledge, and all the tools you need are all wrapped up in one little old kitchen knife.

But the gardening season is here and the gardening urge is upon everybody. The urge may not be translated into action, but psychologists long ago recognized that at this season of the year normal human beings have an impulse to plant something and watch it grow. It seems to be concomitant with the ascending sap trees, shrubs, and other perennials. To a certain degree, it is an economic urge — folks like to think they can grow their own vegetables and save on the family budget.

In this idea they are supported by government experts who say that fresh vegetables for an average family may be grown upon a back lot with an area of 30 by 60 feet. The use of fresh vegetables adds variety to the diet and improves the health of those who use them. That goes without saying even though it is an ancient maxim. The government time is at hand for getting out the spade, hoe, and rake and starting a little preliminary work in the garden. That is, unless your home is in a city apartment and your garden is a box on a window ledge, and all the tools you need are all wrapped up in one little old kitchen knife.

The many thousands of city gardens, fully fifty per cent of which were started during the World War when the big drive was on to produce and to economize as much as possible, have played an important part in providing a substantial increase in the food supply of the country. This statement is on the authority of the experts of the United States Department of Agriculture who go on to say that it is essential the work so well started should continue and that the many thousands of acres of uncultivated land in and around our cities should be utilized for food production.

EXPERIMENTAL STAGE PASSED

"The experimental stage of city gardening has been passed," says a bulletin, which tells you everything except how to handle your hoe, "and, in the language of one of the state workers, the city garden movement will not have achieved its full purpose until all suitable lands are utilized and every family table is fully supplied.

"The city back-yard of vacant-lot garden provides a supply of vegetables at home without transportation or handling costs. Vegetables from the home garden are fresher and more palatable than those brought from a distance. Many persons who work in offices, stores, and factories have time mornings and evenings that may well be devoted to the cultivation of a garden, thus utilizing spare time and idle land for food production. The home vegetable garden should be a family interest, and all members of the family who are able to do so should take part in its cultivation. There is no better form of outdoor exercise than moderate working in the home garden, and few lines of recreational work will give greater returns for the time employed.

City gardens are of three general types: back-yard gardens, vacant-lot gardens, and community gardens. The first mentioned is to be preferred as a rule, because it is convenient and easily guarded. But just because you have a back-yard do not jump to the conclusion that it can be converted into a good garden. It will not be worth bothering with if it is not so situated as to get the sunshine at least five hours each bright day, if there is rock but a few inches below the surface, if there is not sufficient moisture, if it is ground where a fill has been made with cinders, broken brick or if the original soil has been buried with materials upon which weeds will not grow. Nor should you plant a garden under or near large trees that will steal all the moisture and plant food from the crops.

If you can have it made to order, so to speak, your garden plot should be level, or gently sloping toward the south or southeast. The drainage should be good, but the land should not be so steep as to wash during rains. The location should be higher than adjoining land to safeguard against frost. The ideal soil is a dark sandy loam with a rather retentive subsoil, and should be deep and break up loose and mellow when plowed or spaded. And in planning your garden bear in mind that the rows of plants should run north and south, if it is possible, and that it should be so arranged that the tall-growing plants will not shade the smaller ones.

GET AN EXPERT'S ADVICE

Volumes have been written about preparing the soil, the use of manure, fertilizer, and lime, the selection of seeds, starting early plants in window boxes, coldframes, or hotbeds, and the general care of the garden once it has been started, but the wisest course to follow, if you have had no experience in growing a garden, is to get the advice of some one who has had. If you can get hold of an expert, all the better. Get a man who knows something about the soil with which you have to deal, what treatment it needs, what crops it will produce the most and the best of, and the hundred and one other things that enter into making a successful garden.

As a rule not more than 10 or 12 different kinds of vegetables should be grown in the city home garden. These should be chosen with the idea of securing the greatest food value from a limited area. Some of the important food crops, such as Irish potatoes, peas, and sweet corn, require too much space for a small garden, but they should of course be included if the size of the garden permits.

Local conditions vary to such a degree that each gardener must select his crops according to his soil, space and the requirements of his family. A succession of plantings of certain vegetables will produce a continuous supply, while others may be grown between the main crops, thus making the land do double duty. The government experts say that most amateurs show a tendency to plant too heavily to lettuce and radishes, and that an adequate supply of these vegetables can be grown in the rows between the plants or hills of other crops. Most beginners, it is stated, also attempt too many varieties and kinds of vegetables. They would do better to content themselves to a few standard sorts, leaving the novelties to those who have plenty of land and time at their disposal.

The vegetables that do not require so much space include beans, leeks, parsnips, salsify, turnips, radishes, lettuce, carrots, tomatoes, sweetpeas, eggplant, okra, onions, cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, spinach, and celery.

Those that are scarcely to be considered for a small garden include Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, corn, peas, and the vine crop—cucumbers, summer and winter squashes, cantaloupes, and watermelons.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—To the average ear the jargon of the tent show racket, as heard about Broadway, is as foreign as the chatter of a Borneo native.

Slang of a colorful and snappy nature pervades the whole Broadway atmosphere, but slant! If you will, this item culled recently from the Billboard and see what you make of it:

"At Liberty, Trombonist—Hot and sweet. Plant pop. Read and tie. Sing, play in tune, gold outfit, tuxedo double at drums, dirt and flash, hot sock cymbal. Ham lay off. Some violin when needed, double stop and gootus."

And what, you may ask, is a gootus?

None other than the funny little organ sometimes played in connection with a tent show ballyhoo.

The remainder also lends itself to literal translation, although this is the English language as she is "spoke" in the show racket.

Thus to be able to play "hot" or "sweet" means the versatile accomplishment of being adept both at "Red Hot Mamma" and "Loves Old Sweet Song." The boast of a "gold outfit" means nothing more than the possession of plated instrument. That he can "dirt and flash" has a connotation similar to "hot or sweet," which is to say that he can be tricky with his "stuff." The "hot sock cymbal" sent us to the editors, from whom we learn that this is a nifty trick among jazz drummers who can both play the traps and "jazz" the cymbals attached to the big drum" by dexterous usage of the left foot.

Very simple, is it not?

While at present this is all Sanscrit to the layman, perhaps the day will come when these and many more expressions will sneak into the slang-vocabulary.

Thus "doubling in brass," an old show term relating to the double talent of playing in the band and appearing in the show, is more or less common usage now.

The word "racket" increases in usage and now covers almost any "business, game or graft."

Not so distant related to the word "graft" is the tent-show word "grift." While from an organization just getting ready for the road we learn that they can use: "Cook house, juice, mitt camp, hoopla, spot-the-spot, pitch and pit."

If you have any of these in your cellar dig them out.

Another adverbial that it can use "grind joints and skillets."

In a casual sentence from still another we find this: "Want man who can work lion." That should be fairly simple for any of the army of lion tamers lying about.

By way of definition, translation: "Juice" refers to lemonade stands and such. A "pit" is a sideshow attraction where the yokels peer over a railing at the attraction. A "pitch" is any sort of attraction such as tossing rings for the knife, or winning the "doll baby."

A "hoopla" is a sort of riddle and a grift joint is a carnival store of any sort. As to a "skille," I am still in the dark.

Q. Is there a law against bringing a halibut into port with its head on; if so, why? T. M. M.

A. It is a universal custom to behead the halibut at point of landing, and ship fish dressed and beheaded. The heads are sometimes used for the manufacture of fertilizer, fish meal, or glue. There is no law concerning this.

Q. What does the expression "He can't stand the gaff" mean? M. J.

GULL IN FLIGHT

The gulls have webbed feet and must take their food in their heavy beaks. Often it is necessary for them to dive completely under to catch some morsel that is sinking, but they take their ducking gracefully and do not seem to mind it in the least.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

PERFORMS VALUABLE SERVICE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President. American Nature Ass'n. The gull has long been the symbol of the sea, associated with storms, lonely beaches of rock and sand and endless gray wastes of water.

In all life romantic and poetical discussion of him little attention has been paid to the valuable service he performs in keeping our waters free of refuse that would otherwise become offensive. For the gull is a scavenger.

However, he is a scavenger of the less offensive sort, for he picks up his food before it has begun to decay and seldom feeds upon carion.

Gulls commonly follow ships, maintaining a sharp lookout for discarded table scraps. They are able to distinguish edible bits at a glance, and no matter how often you try you will never get them to swoop at orange peel or other refuse they do not wish to eat.

Throw over a scrap of fish, a piece of stale bread or a bacon rind, however, and all the gulls within sight immediately make a dash at the tid-bit.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folsom's swimming companions had been ROBERT KEVILLE, a business partner, MRS. HELEN BARRY and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a piching, an Oriental knife, and it has been bought on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one CROYDON SEARS, who was in Folsom's party, is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia Folsom, an architect, to work on the case, DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by the curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

He believes his uncle had been blackmailing several people and he and Riggs discovered suspicious documents in Folsom's effects. Anastasia tells Riggs to go ahead; she is not afraid of her brother's name being smirched by a full investigation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVIII

"Stop at nothing," commanded Anastasia. "Tell any one who cares to know the fullest details of Garrett Folsom's life. Show him up entirely, and you will be pleased with the result. I haven't lived with that man half a century for nothing. He was as incapable of conscious wrongdoing as I am myself. And I assure you, I would do an injustice to no one."

"I believe you implicitly," Miss Folsom, but I want to warn you once more, that you may be mistaken. That blinded by love for your brother, you have misread some signs or indications, and that, in his love for you, he may have kept from you some details of his life that must have distressed you."

"You make him out worse with every word you utter. If you are working for me, Mr. Riggs, you are working at my orders, and those are for you to go on the lines I lay down for you and no others. Will you do this?"

"I will," said Tite Riggs, gravely, "now that I have carefully warned you of the calamities you invite."

"They are my calamities. I will meet them should they come. First, then, Mr. Riggs, you will investigate such cases as you can get further details about from that notebook."

"There are many definite dates and names of places, Miss Folsom. Shall I go right through the list?"

"By all means."

"Hold on, auntie," said Dan Pelton. "You may get yourself involved in libel suits and all sorts of horrible things."

"For heaven's sake, Dan, remember that I ordered you to keep out of this. You have no regard for your uncle's good name, no care for his unjust arraignment, but at least you may keep quiet and let me go my own way."

"And if I could stop you?"

Pelton gazed at his formidable relative with something of admiration. "And here's another thing," the lady went on. "As I came in you two mentioned the name of Croydon Sears. Is he in your precious book?"

"The initials C. R. S. occur a few times," Riggs told her.

"Very well. That's Mr. Sears. And, of course, he is the murderer. Don't you remember he was at the auction where that knife was sold?"

"But he didn't buy it!"

"We don't know that he didn't. He's the man I tell you."

"Then you must admit that Folsom had such a strange hold on him that Sears went to the length of murder to be free from him?" exclaimed Pelton. "Shut up!" said his aunt. "Oh, Dan, do go away! Go and bathe or something; I can't stand another minute of you!"

Dan went.

"Now, Mr. Riggs," his employer continued, "will you get busy on Croydon Sears at once?"

"I will, Miss Folsom, but I must

ILLINOIS TO STUDY BADGER GAME LAWS

Legislative Committee Looks to Wisconsin for Conservation Ideas

Madison (AP)—Methods of conservation in vogue in Wisconsin and Iowa will be observed by Illinois at the end of this month when the joint legislative fish and game committee of that state enters the Badger and Hawkeye commonwealths to observe methods used in preserving and propagating the fish, game and forest.

Earl B. Searoy, chairman of the Illinois committee, has written to Earl Hall, Wisconsin conservation chairman, making arrangements for the trip and the Wisconsin executive has replied that he will welcome the visitors. They will be accompanied by Director William J. Stron of the Illinois department of conservation.

The trip, according to a letter from Mr. Searoy, has for its motive an inquiry "into the feasibility of uniform fish and game laws in this immediate vicinity of the middle west."

Leaving Illinois in that states "fish car" at midnight, March 30, the six committee members and the conservation director will come to Madison, spending the afternoon of March 31 and possibly the greater part of the next day in this state, talking with conservation officers and members of the legislature who are able to attend the conferences.

Returning to Chicago, April 1, the Illinois will inspect fish hatcheries around that city and go to Des Moines for a meeting with Iowa conservation heads April 4.

Miss Margaret Parham, daughter of Mrs. Nell Parham of Madison, has been selected by Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Calvin A. Koehring, military ball chairman, as honorary queen of the Fifteenth Annual Military ball in the state capitol on Friday, April 1. Miss Parham and Mr. Koehring are seniors at the state university. The promenade this year will probably be the last university function to be held at the state house, for the Wisconsin Memorial Union building, now under construction is planned to house the future social events of the university.

however much she craved it, she'd give in to old Ned."

"So they're staying on?"

"For another week or two. My old man loves it, too. Dad is in his element down here. He loves the water, and more, he loves to potter about the shops."

"Old taste, that?"

"Oh, I don't mean the catch-pennies. He never bothers with cheap stuff. But you know the boardwalk has displays in some instances that are among the best ever."

"Yes, I know it. Robin, have you dropped out of our detective collaboration?"

"Are you still at that?" He looked up his surprise. "Why I thought it was past history. The inquest—"

"Oh, the inquest isn't the be-all and end-all of a murder case."

"What can I do to help?"

"Nothing, if you ask in that lackadaisical way."

"Now there's a word I've always enjoyed. Don't know how to spell it; don't know how to pronounce it, but I just adore that word."

"Stalling!" Riggs thought to himself, amazed. "Whatever ailed the chap?"

Riggs thinks Robin Sears would be all satisfied if the investigation were dropped. Is he trying to shield his father, Croydon Sears?

PICK SIX SENIOR BOYS TO ENTER HEISS CONTEST

Six senior boys were selected for the William Heiss Memorial oratorical contest at Appleton high school at the final tryouts directed by Warren Wright and Miss Ruth McKennan on Thursday evening. George Beckley, Donald McMahon, William Meyer, Robert Mitchell, Carl Nelson and Arthur Smith were the successful candidates. Eighteen boys tried out for the contest, a larger number than for several years. Last year only six contestants appeared at the tryouts.

A list of orations will be presented to the boys to select the ones to be given. They were chosen by Mr. Wright and Prof. A. L. Franke of the public speaking department at Lawrence college, from college orations which have won intercollegiate oratorical contests. The Heiss contest will be held April 22 at the school.

Goliath, according to Biblical experts, was only 19 inches taller than this, but Jose may yet reach that mark, for he is only 19 and still growing.

Engineering Leadership enthusiastically endorsed

NEVER was the trend toward the Willys-Knight Six more pronounced than it is today. At every Automobile Show—at all leading metropolitan centers throughout the country—these two finer sixes have won enthusiastic praise wherever they were shown.

Experienced motorists have learned that in flexibility—acceleration—climbing power—economy—long life—and low depreciation—this type of car is without a rival.

And they have found in these fine cars a superiority of coachwork and luxury of interior that are unsurpassed in the fine car field.

Judged solely from the standpoint of performance, beauty and long life no other type of car compares to the Willys-Knight. But in addition you must also consider this combination of advantages that means so much to the comfort, pleasure and security of present-day motoring:

The Human Life Capitalized

Every man who has assumed family obligations should take out such an amount of Life Insurance—should capitalize himself to such an extent—that the principal when safely invested will yield an income equivalent to from one-third to one-half of his earning capacity through life.

Nearly all other values are being capitalized in this age, and it is entirely proper—in fact, essential—that the value of a human life should also be capitalized.

Consider the Life Insurance Trust to conserve your life insurance estate.

BEAUTY HINTS

Sport Suits

The male will be more deadly than the female where colors are concerned this summer! Zebra stripes and parrot colors are combined to transform heretofore monotonous male into a gorgeous butterfly.

Knicker, blazer coats, sweaters, ties, shirts and socks are the garments most affected by the present urge for pep in male attire. Four hundred different patterns are being utilized for these items. No longer will the well dressed male cavort in peaceful monotonous. Socks striped in blue and gold must be matched by sweaters, blazer coats or knickers. Even the lowly handkerchief must bear the color note of the ensemble.

FAIRISTE WEAVE

Multi-colored striped blazer coats are already the highlights of Palm Beach. These are worn primarily for beach purposes although they may be used to replace smoking jackets about the home. Stripes extend either vertically or horizontally. Sweaters of fairiste weave have wide multi-colored horizontal stripes. These will be the smart thing for golf and sports wear, being matched by socks with smaller stripes or checks.

Knicker offers the most fanciful color note since these articles of apparel have heretofore been confined to such shades as tan, gray, white, black and white or pencil stripes. Today they blossom forth in stripes of red, green, blue, yellow—or what have you? Materials are either Palm Beach cloth or silk and wool mixtures. Plaid knickers are considered pretty swanky according to one of the most fashionable Fifth-ave tailors of men's clothing. Medium and large plaids are used but small inconspicuous checks are taboo.

REGIMENTAL STRIPES

Shirts both for sports and business wear have regimental stripes in two or more colors. Ties have two contrasting colored stripes of such width that when the knot is tied but one stripe is discernible above the waistcoat.

Business suits run to shades of light browns. Shirts worn with them combine stripes of brown with blue, white, cerise or carn color. Ties follow out the color note in their two colored stripes. And while the male will be a symphony in brown during working hours he will select colors best suited to his personality for his off-hours. The long felt urge for color in men's clothing is to assert itself. On with the stained spectacles!

BREAKFAST—Stewed rhubarb, broiled bacon, fried cornmeal mush, maple syrup, bran muffins, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked lamb croquettes with green peas, toasted muffins, orange marmalade, glass apples, milk tea.

DINNER—Breaded veal cutlets, macaroni baked in tomato sauce, carrots, jelled fruit salad, date and nut salad, date and nut torte, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The orange marmalade is quite perfect with the lamb croquettes used in the luncheon menu. Without the tang of the marmalade the meal would be uninteresting and monotonous as to flavor although well balanced and nourishing.

BAKED LAMB CROQUETTES—One and one-half cups left-over roast lamb, 3-4 cup cold boiled rice, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2-4 cup milk, 1 egg, buttered crumbs.

Put lamb through food chopper and measure. Mix meat and rice thoroughly. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk stirring constantly. Add with seasonings to meat mixture. Beat egg and add all but 4 table-spoons to mixture. Beat mixture with a fork or slotted spoon until perfectly blended. Turn into four buttered custard cups, brush over with reserved egg, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven for twenty-five minutes. Turn out on a platter and serve with buttered or creamed peas.

According To The Mode--

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Tiniest sat around in glee and heard the tunes of Fiddlers Three. King Cole kept up their playing 'til they all grew very tired. And when they were finally through, Wes Clewney did a jig or two. He shouted, "By the music they've been playing I'm inspired."

The old king laughed to see him dance and said, "Id also take a chance but really I am much too old to do a jig or reel. 'Oh, no you're not,' one Tini said, 'just try your luck. Go right ahead, 'cause, after all, you only are as aged as you feel.'"

The king thought maybe that was true, so he began at prancing too. But after 'bout two minutes he was tired as could be. He sat right down and said, "I'm done. To dance may be a heap of fun for all you little Tini-mites, but, frankly, not for me."

Then Society said, "Well, I believe that it is time for us to leave. We thank you for the fun we've had. 'Twas really quite a treat." The old king said, "I'm glad you came. That you must leave is quite a shame, 'cause little folk like you, you see, are folk I like to meet."

So off the Tiniest went again, with promise that they'd call, and then they bowed and bid the king goodbye and made an exit neat. When just outside the palace door, they found some more fun was in store. They saw a funny little fellow running down the street.

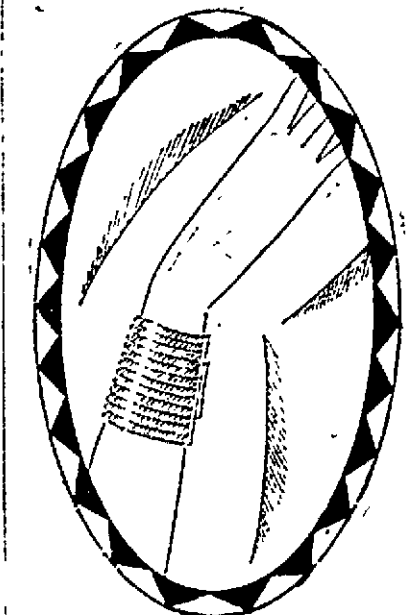

And then they watched him stop real quick, and hop right o'er a candle stick a dozen times, and maybe more. They thought he'd never be through. "Oh, gee," said Copy. "This is slick. That's Jack-Be-Nimble, Jack-Be-

Quick." And then the Tiniest spoke to him and Jack said, "How-dee-do." (The Tiniest see Three Men in a Tub in the next story.)

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

The courthouse, a large and imposing building of white, rough-hewn stone, with magnificent white marble pillars, was set, in lonely splendor, in the center of a city block, its terraced lawn a thing of civic beauty in the spring and summer.

But this very raw day in January found the dry stubble of the courthouse lawn trampled by thousands of feet. Men and women, and—holidays from school—having lost their fight for admission into the court room, which had been packed ever since seven o'clock, were now fighting for preferred positions, near the broad flight of marble steps leading into the building, hoping for a glimpse of the prisoners' relatives and the family of the murdered man.

But it was not the sight of the familiar courthouse and jail which caused Faith's eyes to dilate with horror and Jim Lane's hand to tremble in their clasp on his daughter's arm.

Facing it, on three sides, were blocks of one, two, three and even four-story buildings, given over to garages, filling stations, cheap eating houses and hotels. And almost every business concern in the three blocks facing the courthouse was making a frantic bid for patronage from the thousands who would throng the courthouse square during the trial for murder of Cherry Lane Wiley and her husband, Christopher Wiley.

"PARK HERE WHILE ATTENDING THE BIG TRIAL," pleaded an enormous red and white bunting banner stretched across the only vacant lot on the square. Three men haggard and cajoled the drivers of the endless stream of cars seeking parking space.

A "hot dog" stand, hastily constructed of unpainted pine, occupied a corner of the hitherto vacant lot, enticing patrons with the promise, crudely lettered across the front of the shack: "BEST HOT DOGS IN TOWN."

AT THE CHERRY QUICK EATS STAND.

The plate glass front of a drug store had been decorated with an enormous picture done in red and white soap-suds, purporting to be a portrait of Cherry Lane Wiley, and advertising a new soda fountain concoction, "The Cherry Lane Sundae," a great dish of which the pictured Cherry was supposed to be eating with joyful surprise.

Newsstands, also hastily constructed of unpainted pine, flaunted gigantic printed portraits of Cherry and Chris, foot-high letters assuring the mob of "DAILY SCOOPS ON THE BIG MURDER TRIAL." As Bob gave up the attempt to find a parking place and turned into the vacant lot, newsboys were shrieking a new extra: "Extra! Extra! Read Chris Wiley's own story of his life. Read all about how he came to marry the beautiful flapper-murderess! Chronicle! Extra!"

"It's outrageous, Bob!" Faith gasped, as she and her father and Bob pushed their way through the crowd that had instantly collected before the parking place. "Isn't there any way to stop their using Cherry's name like this? Look! Over there, at that beauty-parlor. How do they dare use Cherry's picture like that without her permission? The new Cherry Lane bob!"

"Oh, how do they dare!" "Such," Bob said bitterly, "is justice in this great free land of ours. Come on. We'll get through this jam somehow. Duck your head, darling. There's a camera aiming at you! Sorry, Mr. Lane. I'm afraid they got you that time!"

TOMORROW: Like the star of a melodrama, Cherry makes her first dramatic appearance in the courtroom where she will fight for life and liberty. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

GOETHE 1749-1832.

(Earlier extracts from love letters written by the famous German poet were published in this series.)

Goethe To Madame Von Stein March 22, 1781:

"Thy love is like the morning and the evening star—it sets after the sun and rises before it. Rather, it is like the pole star, which never sets, and which weaves over our heads an ever-living garland. I pray that the gods may never dim it for me over the path of my life."

On the 27th of March: "The openness and peace of my heart which thou hast again given me for thee alone, and all good to others and to myself which springs from it be also thine. Believe me, I feel quite changed: my old benevolence comes back, and with it the joy of my life. Thou has given me delight in good, which I had quite lost."

Again, April 22: "Last night I had a great mind to throw my ring into the water, like Polydorus, for I counted up my happiness in the stillness and found a monstrous sum."

"June 28—Yes, dear Lotte, now is it first plain thou has become and remained my own half. I am no individual, independent being. All my weaknesses have I hung upon thee, have supplied by thee all my defects. When I am far away from thee my condition is a strange one. On one side I am armored and weaponed, on the other like a raw egg, for I have neglected to harness myself where thou art shield and shelter. I delight in belonging entirely to thee, and in soon seeing thee again. I love everything about thee, and everything makes me love thee more."

Goethe To Bettine Brentano "What can one say and give to thee, which is not already in a more beautiful way become thine own? One must be silent and give thee thy way. When an opportunity offers to beg something of thee, then, one may let his thanks for the much which has unexpectedly been given through the riches of thy love, flow in the same stream. That thou cherishest my mother, I would fain with my whole heart requite thee; from yonder a sharp breeze blew upon me, and now that I know that thou art with her, I feel safe and warm."

I do not say to thee 'come,' I will not have the little bird disturbed from its nest; but the accident would not be unwelcome to me, which should make use of storm and tempest to bring it safely beneath my roof. At any rate, Dearest Bettine, remember that thou art on the road to spoil me."

Grass Green
Golf Coats
Very New

Mother Eve was the first woman to be tempted by a serpent but not the last. After all these centuries of slithering one wonders whether Eve might not have been playing a skin game on the poor snake. Perhaps she thought that his mottled hide would make a niftier outfit than her figleaf.

At any rate, modern Eves find snakeskin very smart where fashions are concerned. The latest rage is the coat made entirely of box constrictor, cobra or rattlesnake skin. Heretofore we have been content with reptilian trimmings and accessories. Snake coats, however, have invaded the sports world and are replacing leathers and woolen weaves for those who have the wherewithal to purchase these luxuries. Leathers mottled and dyed to imitate snakeskin are being shown in less expensive models. Reptilian coats are usually manish in outline since they are designed strictly for sports wear. Lapels, belts and finishings show the masculine trend. Coat lengths vary from knee length to full lengths. Colors are natural in most instances, although one smart shop is featuring golf coats of green the constrictor in a grass shade.

ACCESSORIES OF SNAKE Snake coats are matched by hats, handbags and shoes of snake. One wishing to be entirely accurate in snakeskin detail may also include such accessories as vanity cases, cigarette lighters and lipstick containers of this hide.

COAT TRIMMINGS

With coats trimmed in snakeskin will be more popular than entire snakeskin coats since these are less novel. Bands of snake adorn collars, pockets, borders and belts of many of the spring models for sports wear. Even buttons are made of snake. Usually several narrow bands of snakeskin are used as trimming on collars and as an outline to the new patch pockets. Snake belts are shown on some of the new suits and jumper frocks, matched invariably by handbags and shoes. Real snakeskin accessories such as these are quite costly and for this reason the average woman purchases leathers dyed and mottled in imitation of snakeskin.

WOMEN SMOKERS

Toledo, Ohio—Thirteen men and one woman, all of them members of the board of directors of the National Restaurant association of Toledo, sat around a conference table. All but the women were smoking cigars or cigarettes while they discussed the propriety of admitting women to smoke in restaurants of cafes.

Every one of the men said they deprecated the custom and forbade it. Only one woman, Miss Grace E. Smith of Toledo, who never smokes herself, said she found it good business to provide a room in her restaurant for women smokers.

STATE ASSEMBLY RUSHES ACTION ON HORDE OF BILLS

Nine Assembly Measures Approved and Go to Senate for Final Action

Madison—(P)—In one of its quietest sessions since the calendars have been crowded with legislative matters the assembly Friday completed action on the long list of bills early and adjourned until 7:30 Monday evening.

Assemblyman Withrow withdrew his motion to reconsider the vote by which the Lawson, interim committee bill providing for taxation of bank and trust incomes, instead of stock, was ordered engrossed. The bill therefore will go its regular course.

Ten bills were ordered engrossed, only one bringing a debate. This was the bill raising the compensation of members of the board of review from three to eight dollars. As finally engrossed it carried an amendment making the increase two dollars instead of five.

Reconsideration of the Tews bill, allowing counties and municipalities to erect and maintain food storage warehouses and markets was moved and will be taken up Tuesday.

Five measures were killed, including two by Assemblyman Wood setting new exemption rates on income taxes for head of families, and prohibiting state banks from making loans on the security of the stock of building and loan associations.

The bill allowing American Legion corporation is establishment and administration of a game-refuge in Oneida county, was referred to the finance and game committee, when it was discovered that an amendment had been inserted ordering the conservation commissioner to lease the land in the preserve to the Legion, remuneration was raised against the leasing of the state land.

Nine assembly bills were approved and sent to the senate for that body's action. They were:

Assemblyman Thayer's bill changing several of the open seasons on fishing in different counties and waters.

The Miller bill allowing county health committees, instead of county board's to hire nurses where there is county provision for such.

Fixing the date of filing and payment of the amount of fire department dues from fire insurance companies.

Compelling insurance companies to submit annual statements of their condition to the insurance department, and providing penalties, by Mr. Roethel.

A small fish and game law change by the committee on fish and game.

Two bills by assemblyman Trembly on transaction of life insurance by mutual and stock companies and surplus of life insurance companies.

Allowing towns, mutual insurance companies to insure school houses, churches, cheese factories, creameries and blacksmith shops and their contents, by Assemblyman Kamper.

Relating to assessments and benefits in condemnation proceedings by village boards.

that meanwhile a sober second thought will persuade the Chinese generals that more is to be lost than gained by permitting their forces to fight near the foreign settlements.

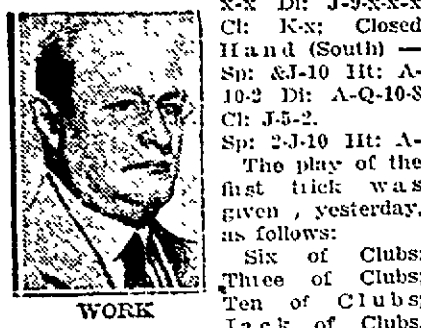

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

(Readers of The Post-Crescent are invited to send their bridge problems to the Bridge Editor of The Post-Crescent and they will be forwarded to Mr. Work, author of these bridge articles. Mr. Work will answer every letter.)

The pointer for today is: When playing a No-Trump, the adversaries having established a suit, losing a finesse generally means good-bye game; so only vitally necessary finesses should be attempted.

Yesterday a hand was given which illustrates the above pointer; it was: Dummy (North)—Sp: A-K-K H: K-K-K D: J-9-K-K C: K-K: Closed Hand (South)—Sp: A-K-K H: A-10-9 D: A-Q-10-8 C: J-5-2.

Suppose that we now place ourselves in the position of the Declarer, and knowing the location of the adverse cards, and plan our campaign. It is not probable that we can lose a finesse and still make game, but it is impossible to win game without risking a finesse. There is just as much chance of winning the Spade finesse as there is of winning the Diamond finesse. There has been no bidding, and no indication of the location of either King; but if the Spade finesse win, it would make only three Spade tricks which, in addition to the one Club trick already won, two Heart tricks and the Ace of Diamonds, would leave the Declarer two tricks short of game and so after that, the Diamond finesse would still have to be tried. To risk an ineffectual finesse is doubling the chance of failure, therefore the Diamond finesse should be the one attempted because, if it win, the Declarer will take one trick short of game and so after that, the Spade, and make game without venturing the Spade finesse. With a total of nine Diamonds in the two hands, the Diamond finesse should be taken instead of attempting to drop a possible adverse singleton King; the finesse has an "even" chance of success and the odds against finding an adverse singleton King are very great.

The Dummy should be put in with the King of Hearts (trick 2), and the Diamond finesse, then third, as in the hand described earlier this week.

Lead Jack of Diamonds, on which Closed hand plays the Ten; second lead Nine of Diamonds, on which Closed Hand plays the Eight;

AMERICAN CASUALTIES

Shanghai—(P)—All the Americans at Nanking, other than the one known to be killed and four injured are accounted safe in wireless dispatches received here shortly before 6 o'clock Saturday night.

The 120 Americans who took refuge in Nanking are all reported aboard the ships in the river. The known American casualties are:

Dead—Dr. J. L. Williams of Shawnee, Ohio, vice president of Nanking university.

Injured—Miss Anna E. Moffet, Fort Sheridan, Ill., of the Presbyterian mission, shot twice in the body by a Nationalist soldier. She will recover.

Private Plumley of the marine corps an American Bluejacket, unidentified.

Earl T. Hobart, manager of the Standard Oil plant at Nanking. Ankles injured.

Dr. Williams was shot in cold blood at his home near the university. The crime was witnessed by his wife and other Americans. One witness Saturday said Dr. Williams stood outside his home while Cantonese were looting it. As the Chinese soldiers departed he called out "good-bye" in Cantonese whereupon a soldier turned and shot him.

Although dispatches from Nanking fail to state definitely that American forces participated in the landing party which went to the rescue of the foreigners concentrated on Socony Hill Thursday, American officials here believe they undoubtedly did, as British and Americans have been working in closest cooperation, sharing fully the duty of protecting their nationals.

At least it is certain that the marine guards of the United States consulate at Nanking took part in the fighting and acquitted themselves splendidly. They were largely responsible for safety bringing out the Socony Hill party, including the American consul, John K. Davis.

FLY RED FLAG

Shanghai—(P)—The soviet flag flies over the Shanghai north station terminus of the Shanghai-Nanking railway, just outside the international settlement.

The Chinese workers who went on strike when the Cantonese entered Shanghai are returning to work, but most of them are armed and they are endeavoring to run the railway with workers' committees, without foreign aid.

Since the strike began, none of the British officials have been allowed in the railway station. At the railway shops all Chinese foremen were dismissed.

Intense activity is reported among the labor unions in the native cities joining Shanghai. All these unions are said to be controlled by Reds, and an intensive organization campaign is proceeding, especially among the lower laboring class.

Kaukauna—Line men of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. are changing telephone wires here. During the last few weeks two crews have been working in various parts of the city. Cable on Wisconsin-ave was changed from 50 pairs to 100 pairs as far as Deslover-st and 50 pairs the rest of the length of the avenue. The change, Robert Brooks, local exchange manager said, was necessary to take care of the increased volume of business. Many new phones have been installed in the past year. New cables were laid on Oviest-st and Tobacco-ave and the 25 pair cables on Crooks-ave were taken down last week and 50 pair cables put up.

HIGH SCHOOL GAMES

With six five-man teams from Kaukauna, several doubles and singles bowlers from the same city and other bowlers from other cities, the first annual bowling tournament of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion on the Elk alleys, only one man was able to break into the leads in the big classic. Kaukauna failed to place a bowler in the doubles, singles and all-events, but did place an individual among the leaders but Willis Suttcliffe, New London, rolled high scores in the doubles, singles and all-events to place among the first five in each.

In the doubles Suttcliffe and his partner, W. Smith, took into second place with 1106. Behind them, behind the Heesacker and Oudenhoven, Little Chute. The mark of the Edison men showed Ripon, Burlington and Kaukauna pairs down a notch each and pushed Cheek-Schoener, Stevens Point, and Jefford-Schoener, Hartford, who had been tied for fifth down from among the leaders.

In the singles Suttcliffe reached fourth place with a 583, showing Zurn of Hartford to fifth, and Bowser, Algonia, from among the leaders. In the all-events his 583 was good for second place below Zurn, and above Glaser, Burlington, and Heesacker, Little Chute. No New London five-man teams rolled and there were no changes in the big event. High five-man score went to the Artillery, Kaukauna with a 2651.

Hendricks Worried Over Infielders, Not Pitchers

BY BILLY EVANS

Orlando, Fla.—The Cincinnati Reds boast enough good pitching to make the club a strong contender for the pennant. Manager Jack Hendricks is perfectly satisfied with his twirling staff and he should be. He is the only major league manager I have met this spring who isn't worried over his pitching.

figuring the chances of the National League clubs there is no denying the Reds. Whether the club has the other necessary stuff to back up its striking remains to be seen. It strikes me that most of Manager Hendricks' worry will be centered around his infield problems. The Reds have a good infield but hardly a great one. There are several others in the National League that stand out more strongly.

Eau Claire's flashy team disposed of Kenosha 28 to 14, in the upper bracket of the competition while Madison Central took a terrific battle with La Crosse, 24 to 18. The feature clash of the night games found two of the best teams in Badgerdom. Madison and La Crosse, staging the hardest-fought game of the tournament. Taking an early lead the Capital city lads fought off a last half rally of the river city team, two close-up shots in the final minutes finally giving them the victory margin.

Eau Claire, doped as a tournament favorite, overpowered the fast Kenosha team with a clever passing attack and accurate shooting. Kenosha opened the scoring with a field goal, but Eau Claire quickly tied.

Both teams scored and after close guarding by both teams for five minutes Eau Claire broke through for two under the basket shots.

At half time, Eau Claire led by Engstrom and McQueen, had piled up a 14 to 17 advantage. At the opening of the second half, Eau Claire increased their score to 20, while the Kenosha team tallied two points. Gilson, clever center for the Eau Claire quintet, broke up Kenosha's short passing game and brought the ball down the floor in excellent style.

During the closing minutes, the Purple-clad team prevented the Kenosha outfit from gaining possession of the ball.

Madison Central ran up a 7 to 10 advantage over the river entry a few minutes after the opening of the game. At the end of the first period they held a 14 to 7 lead. The La Crosse team came back in the second period with a rush but failed to come up with the Madison city lads.

In the final quarter of the game, La Crosse came within two points of the Capital city squad only to crack in the final minutes in the face of an alert attack. The game became rough and Nelson, guard for Madison, and Reiman, La Crosse center, went out on personal fouls.

With the score 20 to 18, La Crosse missed two free shots under the hoop. Wild shooting by La Crosse in the final minute with five-men down the floor enabled the Madison team to break away for wide open shots after taking the ball off the back board.

Gantenben and Peters starred for the River City outfit, the veteran forward scoring three field goals and the stocky captain two from the field.

The University of Wisconsin's gymnasium was packed for the games and hundreds were turned away. Although a light drizzle fell throughout the evening, many stood outside to hear results.

DEAD AIM

JOSEPH NOVAK

Throwing a basketball through the basket 1076 times in succession on free shots may not be a world record, but it is something to talk about. Joseph Novak, 15-year-old schoolboy of Tacoma, Wash., slipped that many in recently while practicing on the school court. He used a regulation ball.

Roundly that famous, sly singer of words on a Madison newspaper, whose comments always are watched with interest by high school cage fans during state tourney days is making his usual remarks on cages and teams in the meet. Here's what he said of Menasha's players after the opening game which Ashland took in the final minutes, 29-17.

Menasha had the longest shot artist ever to play here in Edward Godhardt every time he touched the ball he shot for basket and got about 3 baskets from parts unknown. Clifford Klutz of Menasha is varsity stuff great pair of legs on him and he is a good basketball player this kid and bet he can step on a football gridiron plenty he looks good to Roundy plenty.

Menasha had the smallest and best player I ever saw on a court it was Clarence Vetter don't weigh over 90 pounds for his weight is the best in the country can advance that ball down the court and is a bear on the defense it is worth the price of a duck cat to see this kid in a game. Menasha had pretty darn good team that had no license to lose that game, the fault of it I saw with ease.

Well our dope got an upset Friday at Madison but we still have a record of 12 wins and 2 losses or .857. Eau Claire beat Kenosha as we predicted but in the biggest upset of the meet to date the Madison Centrals beat La Crosse with two baskets in the final minutes. That changes our final choice and now we pick Eau Claire as the champion, with La Crosse third by beating Kenosha.

Games are getting better, more exciting and closer than ever, but we still think, Appleton, Fond du Lac or Manitowish would be in the finals right now had they gone to the meet from their sections. In fact outside of La Crosse now beaten, we'd pick the other teams in the finals. Little chance with the three Valley loop leaders.

paigm Hesmer was entered into the individual Big Ten championship meet, held at Chicago, to gain experience. While unnoticed at first he surprised everyone and earned his way into the finals which he won easily.

HESMER ELECTED TO LEAD ILLINI MATMEN

Urbana—The University of Illinois wrestling team elected "Pete" Hesmer captain of the 1927 mat squad at the annual banquet. Illinois won the Big Ten championship this year to make it five straight and Hesmer wrestled in three bouts, winning twice and losing to Solomon of Michigan.

Hesmer came to Illinois as wrestling champion of Iowa, while a high school at Morganstown, Iowa, his home town. As a freshman he was easily the best of the special weight wrestlers and had little difficulty in winning his number one. "Pete" was forced to fight against "Sage" a veteran of three years, for his place on the team and shared bouts with him.

Following a strenuous Big Ten campaign Hesmer was entered into the individual Big Ten championship meet, held at Chicago, to gain experience. While unnoticed at first he surprised everyone and earned his way into the finals which he won easily.

SATURDAY GAME

Kimberly-Clark vs. Fox River (Champs.)

A battle for the 1927 championship of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial league will take place Saturday evening at the association gymnasium when the two leaders clash in the final game of the year. Kimberly-Clark, with but one loss to the Coated Paper five this year is a slight favorite to win and take the banner. The Fox River five, in second, has two losses this year, one to the K-C crew in a hard fought battle. The standings are K-C, 11-1; Fox River, 12-2.

A Kimberly win clinches the banner for that crew and a Batz win means a tie for first and a possible playoff. Both teams are composed of husky fighters and they are evenly matched so that one of the best battles of the circuit year is expected to close the circuit play.

Members of the Fox River five are Ted Ray and Son Tornow; Cave and Ted Radtke, Batz, Berro, Stevens and Schroeder. For the Kimberly five, Van Ryzin, Clark, LaRue, Busch, Pocaan, DuChane, Pope and Boettcher work.

YANKS, CARDS HOOK UP IN WORLD SERIES

Rivals of Big Classic Last Fall Will Battle in 9-game Contest

With the New York Yankees hooked up with the St. Louis Cards again in the first of a spring nine-game "little world series" at Avon Park, Fla., Saturday Tony Lazzeri will seek to prove "old Pete" Alexander wasn't near as good nor Tony half as bad as they appeared in that fatal seventh inning last fall when Alex fanned the Yanks second baseman with the bases full and won a world championship for St. Louis.

They have been pining all winter for a return engagement to prove Alexander's services may have no terrors for him. The Giants won 7-0 from the Jacksonville Tars.

Brooklyn stepped on Columbus at Plant City, 3 to 1.

Philadelphia Americans play their last baseball game Saturday at their training camp in Fort Myers, Fla., with Buffalo Internationals.

Sunday the Athletics break camp. Friday they defeated Baltimore, 7-6, in 11 innings.

In the camp of Philadelphia Nationals at Bradenton, Jack Scott, star pitcher, finally has signed a contract. The Phillies were defeated Friday by St. Louis Cardinals at Avon Park, 9-6.

The Texas league champions triumphed over the Chicago Sox, 4-2, Friday. The Cubs cut hit the Angels at Los Angeles but the coast pitchers kept the blows scattered enough to ring up a 5 to 4 victory over the Chicago Sox.

Although Tris Speaker and Sam Rice have partially recovered from their injuries and once again are able to wear uniforms, they did not accompany the Senators to St. Augustine, Fla., Saturday for another two game series with New York Giants.

Carl Mays is slated to start the game for the Cincinnati Reds with the St. Louis Browns Saturday.

"Sherry" Smith, makes his first public appearance Saturday in the game with the Yarnigans at the Lakeland, Fla., training camp of Cleveland Indians. Smith will unlimber in the southpaw circus. Ernie Padgett also makes his 1927 diamond debut at shortstop with the Yanks.

The Pittsburgh Pirates enjoyed their last shutout of the exhibition season Friday, trouncing San Francisco Seals, 4-0. Manager Moriarity has split the Detroit Tigers into two squads, one of which is to take the road Saturday for exhibition games. The road team composed mostly of second string men will join the regulars at 4-4 D. Dallas, Texas, where an exhibition game is scheduled.

Outfielders and infielders were thinking over their latest baseball lesson at Red Sox Camp in New Orleans Saturday. Manager Carrigan called off the usual practice game Friday and devoted time to showing the boys in the garden how to go after long flies.

The Braves wound up their St. Petersburg season by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 4-3.

The St. Louis Cardinals took their sixth victory in a game with Phillies Friday that somewhat resembled a track meet.

BRAVES HAVE DOZEN PLAYERS OVER 6 FEET

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The title of "Giants" would fit the Boston Nationals better than Braves. An even dozen members of the club are six feet or better. Second Baseman Graustein is really the only midget, being but two inches better than five feet.

Dallas — Tommy White, Houston, won a newspaper decision over Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion (10, title not involved).

TOWNS"BUILD MEMORIAL
NOW," IS SLOGAN OF
NEW LONDON LEGION

Proposed Monument to Be Erected in Memorial Park at Cost of $2,000

New London—"Build a Memorial Now" is the slogan adopted by the American Legion post of this city in its initial movement toward the campaign for raising funds for a monument. Notices were circulated among school children on Friday and information broadcasted through the medium of the teachers in all the schools of the city regarding the meaning of the memorial drive, which is to be launched on Monday to continue until Tuesday.

It is proposed that the monument be erected in Memorial park, formerly known to citizens as "fat park," a place which was connected with considerable historic interest. On this spot, at the edge of the river in the early fifties in a building used alternately as a warehouse and a school house, and which was used as a place for the holding of the southern states seceded, sailed the volunteers of this vicinity to the war that saved the union, here also were encamped the volunteers while awaiting their call to duty in the world war.

SET COST AT $2,000
The cost of a suitable monument is estimated to be about $2,000, which is equal to 50 cents for each man, woman and child in this city. This sum is not large and can be easily provided if everyone will give as liberally as his means will permit and as much as his patriotic impulse dictates. If more than the $2,000 is raised, a more beautiful memorial can be erected.

New London has given soldiers to four wars in defense of the United States. Her sons have served in the Mexican, Civil, Spanish-American and World war, and it is to the dead of all wars, to the living who fought and to the nurses that the monument will be erected.

WEYAUWEGA MILLING
CO. PLANS 40,000
BUSHEL ELEVATOR

Will Be Part of Addition to Oldest Flour Mill in Northwest

Special to Post-Crescent
Weyauwega—The Weyauwega Milling Company is making plans for the erection of a new elevator with 40,000 bushels capacity. This addition is to be made a part of a plant that has the distinction of being the oldest flour mill in the northwest. The original mill was built in 1855 by Weed, Birdsall and Co., and with the exception of shut-downs for necessary repairs additions this mill has been in continuous operation from that time to the present day.

Later, Weed, Birdsall and Co. transferred the property to the Weed and Gumaer Manufacturing company, who operated the mill until 1912.

The first big change came when the mill was remodeled from a stone mill to a roller mill, and the four run of stones were replaced by twelve sets of rolls. In 1912 it became the property of the Weyauwega Milling Company.

After this company took possession it was changed to an exclusive rye flour mill, and its capacity was increased to 30 barrels per day. In connection with the mill is an elevator of 35,000 bushels capacity, but as this is insufficient, the company will build another elevator this year.

Carl Haertel, who is in charge of the rye flour production of the Jackson Milling company of Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids for over 40 years, is superintendent of manufacture. The mill has recently been completely remodeled, which has greatly increased its capacity, making it the most up-to-date mills in the country.

MEHICAN DEFENDS
HIS "BOXING BILL"

Senator Points Out That Decision Bouts Are Favored by Sports Writers

Madison—(AP)—There are no valid excuses for Madison not having decided boxing and sparring bouts Senator Mehican said Friday in defense of his "boxing bill" now before a senate committee for review.

"Although the bill has had one committee hearing, with no one appearing against it, I feel another such hearing would convince the senate that this bill is worth while," Senator Mehican continued, "I had invited several Milwaukee sport writers to appear in defense of the measure and they were in all favor of coming to Madison to share their views. However, several have been out of town on spring baseball training trips and necessarily were unable to appear.

Decision boxing bouts, especially among the sports writers is favored. Of course this takes the privilege of making their own "newspaper decision" but it does not hamper their criticism. The main fault, they find

ADULT EDUCATION OFFERED THROUGH APPLETON LIBRARY

University of Wisconsin Extension Division Sponsors Club Work

Education of adults through reading is carried on at the Appleton public library by the University of Wisconsin extension division through the "reading with a purpose" sponsored by the American library association and club work, according to Miss Florence C. Day, librarian. The most valuable source is the extension work done by Wisconsin and other state universities, she believes. Lists of books are sent to the libraries, checked with those in library stock, and as many as the library can afford are purchased.

The "reading with a purpose" is a list of books on a special subject as biology, biography, history and others sent every two months to the libraries. Those purchased from the lists are arranged on a special shelf at the Appleton library.

Through club work, many local women are reached. Members of the library staff locate material for club papers and send for books desired for club study. Education of adults through dissemination of books has been widely advertised recently. In Milwaukee the system established for this work has resulted in national recognition from the American library association.

Books are selected by experienced educators and librarians and are intended primarily for those who have not attended institutions of higher learning or who are unable to attend special schools for full-time instruction.

Milwaukee has one of the comparatively few libraries which maintain a special department for this service. The work as conducted here is in charge of a department chief and several assistants.

This department has made a survey of all the agencies of adults in the city of Milwaukee and has compiled a directory of them. Library representatives visit each of these agencies several times during the year in order to come into personal contact with the teachers and students. The representatives give book talks and lectures to the student groups and conduct class visits to the library where its resources are explained.

Work in continuation schools is another activity of the adult education department. A complete branch library is established and one librarian gives her entire time to consultation with the teachers and pupils, discussing with them the content or merit of particular books, characteristics of the author or some kindred subject.

A similar work is done in citizenship classes located in social centers. Labor organizations also sponsor the benefits of this department of the library. The head of the adult education department assists in preparing the courses for the local labor college.

The federated trades' council gives library representatives special privileges authorizing them to attend all meetings of the council and of all other union labor groups, where the resources of the library can be brought to the attention of the laboring man and his family.

In addition to this group service the adult education department of the Milwaukee library maintains an advisory service for individuals desiring suggestions for general reading or courses for organized study. Expert advice is often sought from other members of the library staff and members of the faculties of the state normal schools, the University of Wisconsin and Marquette University have assisted in the preparation of these courses.

MOTORISTS MUST HAVE LICENSES BY MAY 1

Motorists who have failed to get licenses for their automobile by May 1 will be liable to arrest. George T. Prim, chief of police, warns. Even now the department is beginning to check up on the owners of motor vehicles, although the district attorney has ruled that a warrant is required up to May 1 before a motorist can be called to task. The police department has considerable leeway in this respect, however, for if it is known that an owner is driving his car and has not made application for his license, it is not a difficult matter to prepare a warrant. After May 1 the warrant will not be necessary.

Borah Studying Hard To Learn Spanish Language

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Within the last six or eight months, at the age of 61, Senator William E. Borah has studied and—for practical purposes—learned the Spanish language.

Borah became a student of Spanish because as chairman of the Senate's foreign relations committee he was determined not to be handicapped, in his studies of Mexican, Nicaraguan and other Latin-American problems, by ignorance of the favorite Latin-American tongue.

More conscientiously than the average high school boy, he waded into text books and dictionaries supplied by him by the Congressional Library. Though not yet an accomplished Spanish conversationalist, Borah now is able to read with facility his Latin-American mail. Formerly he had to rely upon interpreters—which involving expense, delay and bother.

The volume of his Latin-American mail continues large. His correspondence with President Calles of Mexico was only a high-spot of it. It seems as if South and Central America are bent on unbending their souls to Borah, and some of the material received is astonishing.

Patriots who fear the sovereignty of their own or other Latin-American nations write to Borah where they wouldn't write to the State Department.

For instance, Borah now is investigating charges from Salvador regarding alleged "atrocities" by American marines in Nicaragua. Naturally, he does not accept such stories without careful inquiry.

Borah never mentioned to anyone, even casually, that he was grappling with the Spanish language to facilitate his studies of foreign relations problems. He kept it to himself, just as he did his refusal of the $2500 senatorial salary increase—until someone discovered it.

READS BOTH SIDES
From week to week a changing procession of books dealing with the Spanish-speaking peoples and nations passes over his desk. With his correspondence, his visitors, and his reading, few Americans are better informed on Mexico and Central America. Incidentally Borah hears from many prominent Americans who come out of these countries, although he cannot publicly reveal the contents of their letters.

On a recent occasion, piled on his desk, approximately 20 new members have been signed up in the membership campaign and it is hoped that the list will grow to 25. Plans for the season's activities will be made at the meeting.
